

FFFL Homeschool Services

Faithful Footsteps Family Learning exists to walk alongside parents in Christian faith to assist in the education of children and youth.

We offer two main homeschooling services. You do not need to be a member of the Umbrella to join the Co-op and you do not need to be in the Co-op to join the Umbrella. These services exist independent of one another.

Homeschool Cooperative

The Homeschool Cooperative is a drop-off program offering supplemental assistance to parents that are homeschooling.

The 2026-2027 School Year is set up for K-12 students on Tuesdays and Thursdays as well as Grades 2-12 for half-day Wednesdays.

Students participating in Tuesday classes will be having core courses: Bible, English, Science, and History. Students will be doing a combination of text work and project based learning. Classes are 90 minutes in length and will consist of hands-on activities both indoors and out. Homework will be given so that parents can continue to teach during the week. We are here to help assess, guide, and support.

Students enrolled in Thursday classes will be taking elective courses, such as Art, Music, PE, and Health. The students will still be expected to do work at home with their parents if they desire these courses to meet the legal requirements of homeschooling.

The last 90 minutes of Thursdays will consist of Worship and both student-directed and instructor-directed activities. This is a great opportunity for the students to build leadership and social skills.

Wednesday classes are half day and courses are geared toward middle and high school. Math help for grades 2-6 will also be offered. Working at home for these classes is imperative for your child's success.

Homeschool Umbrella

Faithful Footsteps Family Learning (FFFL) is an educational ministry operating under Crosspoint Community Church. We are registered with the Maryland State Department of Education to supervise home instruction under section .05 of the home instruction regulations, Code of Maryland Regulations 13A.10.01 Home Instruction.

Families are required to notify their local superintendent of intent to homeschool under our umbrella and to provide regular, thorough instruction in English, Math, Science, Social Studies, Art, Music, Health, and Physical Education.

The role of the Umbrella is a legal role in which homeschooling families review with FFFL instead of with the state of Maryland and FFFL confirms that regular, thorough instruction is taking place.

Role of the Parents/Guardians

Faithful Footsteps Family Learning acknowledges that God has called parents to be responsible for their children in all things. Therefore, the ministry exists to assist and support parents in that journey to help train children academically, spiritually, socially, and emotionally. Parents that have chosen to homeschool their children have accepted the responsibility of legally educating their children in academics. The role of this legal responsibility falls completely on the parents. Parents must ensure that their children are completing the work at home that is required to allow their child/ren to make progress and receive regular, thorough instruction.
